Open Frontiers to Nazi Victims Escaping From Balkans, F. D. R. Asks

By MURIEL LEVIN

WASHINGTON—(J. T. A.)—Emphasizing that the Jews in Hungary and in the Balkan countries "are now threatened with annihilation," President Roosevelt at a press conference issued a statement calling upon the free peoples of Europe and Asia to open temporarily their frontiers to all escaping Nazi victims. He warned that "all who knowingly take part in the deportation of Jews to their death" shall be punished.

The President revealed that he has been in close touch with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin on the matter. He asked that every man everywhere under Nazi domination "hide these pursued victims, help them to get over their borders, and do what he can to save them from the Nazi handman."

"Hundreds of thousands of Jews, who while living under persecution have at least found a haven from death in Hungary and the Balkans, are now threatened with annihilation as Hitler's forces descend more heavily upon these lands," the President said. "That these innocent people, who have already survived a decade of Hitler's fury, should perish on the very eve of triumph over the barbarism which their persecution symbolizes, would be a major tragedy."

Satisfied With War Refugee Board

The President said at his press conference that the work of the War Refugee Board is going very well and the Board has actually been getting people out. He announced the appointment of John W. Pehle, previously acting executive director, to the full directorship of the WRB.

Asked whether the United States would take part in offering haven, the President said that we are taking care of all the refugees we can get out now, in North Africa, for one place. When it was indicated that the question applied to haven in the United States, the President answered that there are not enough to come, for one reason.

Full Text of Statement

"The United Nations," the President's statement reads, "are fighting to make a world in which tyranny and aggression can not exist; a world based upon freedom, equality and justice; a world in which all persons regardless of race, color or creed may live in peace, honor and dignity."

"In the meantime in most of Europe and in parts of Asia the systematic torture and murder of civilians—men, women and children—by the Nazis and the Japanese continues. In areas subjugated by the aggressors innocent Poles, Czechs, Norwegians, Dutch, Danes, French, Greeks, Russians, Chinese, Filipinos—and many others—are being starved or frozen to death or murdered in cold blood in a campaign of savagery."

"The slaughters of Warsaw, Lidice, Kharkov and Nanking—the brutal torture and murder by the Japanese, not only of civilians but of our own gallant American soldiers and fliers—these are startling examples of what goes on day by day, year in and year out, whenever the Nazis and the Japs are in military control—free to follow their barbaric purpose.

Blackest Crime in History

"In one of the blackest crimes of all history—begun by the Nazis in the day of peace and multiplied by them a hundred times in time of war—the wholesale systematic murder of the Jews of Europe goes on unabated every hour. As a result of the last few days, hundreds of thousands of Jews, who while living under persecution have at least found a haven from death in Hungary and the Balkans, are now threatened with annihilation as Hitler's forces descend more heavily upon these lands. That these innocent people, who have already survived a decade of Hitler's fury, should perish on the very eve of triumph over the barbarism which their persecution symbolizes, would be a major tragedy."

"It is therefore fitting that we should again proclaim our determination that none who participate in these acts of savagery shall go unpunished. The United Nations have made it clear that they will pursue the guilty and deliver them up in order that justice be done. That warning applies not only to the leaders but also to their functionaries and subordinates in Germany and in the satellite countries. All who knowingly take part in the deportation of Jews to their death in Poland, or Norwegians and French to their death in Germany, are equally guilty with the executioner. All who share the guilt shall share the punishment."

Urges Germans to Hide Jews and Rescue Them

"I ask every German and every man everywhere under Nazi domination to show the world by his action that in his heart he does not share these insane criminal desires. Let him hide these pursued victims, help them to get over their borders, and do what he can to save them from the Nazi handman. I ask him also to help watch, and to record the evidence that will one day be issued to convict the guilty."

"In the meantime, and until the victory that is now assured is won, the United States will persevere in its efforts to rescue the victims of brutality of the Nazis and the Japs. In so far as the necessity of military operations permit this Government will use all means at its command to aid the escape of all intended victims of the Nazi and Jap executioner—regardless of race or religion or color. We call upon the free peoples of Europe and Asia temporarily to open their frontiers to all victims of oppression. We shall find havens of refuge for them, and we shall find the means for their maintenance and support until the tyrant is driven from their homelands and they may return. In the name of justice and humanity let all freedom loving people rally to this righteous undertaking."

8 DEAD AS BOMBINGS HERALD DEADLINE

By Victor M. Bienstock

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

JERUSALEM — Palestine was quiet this week—on the eve of March 31, the date when the White Paper ban on immigration goes into effect—after a weekend marked by explosions in police stations in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, Haifa and Jaffa, causing 6 deaths, and gun battles between police and Jewish terrorists, in which two Jews, later found dead, were thought to have been wounded.

The Jewish quarters of Jerusalem and Haifa, and all of Tel Aviv were under a strict curfew extending from 5 p. m. to 5 a. m. Police announced that the death penalty for possession of illegal arms and other offenses had been revived.

Official Jewish bodies, including the Jewish Agency, the Tel Aviv Municipal Council and the Jerusalem Jewish Community, issued statements denouncing the terrorists responsible for the co-ordinated bombings. Damage to private property amounted to $500,000 in Jerusalem alone.

6 Police Die

An official communique issued by the Palestine Administration says that three British police officials, including John Scott, assistant superintendent of police, were killed when the bombs exploded in Jerusalem police headquarters. Two British policemen were found dead when demolition squads began removing debris from the completely demolished southern wing of the Jaffa police headquarters. Three policemen were also killed in the Haifa explosion. One policeman died of wounds in Tel Aviv. A number of police and civil officials were injured in the Jerusalem explosion and it took three hours to dig them out from the debris of the demolished police headquarters building.

The bodies of two Jews were discovered on Saturday in deserted lanes off Jerusalem's main streets. The first body was dressed in a British police uniform, which led the authorities to believe that he was one of the participants in the raid on Jerusalem police headquarters, who had died from wounds suffered during the gun battle with police. The raiders all wore police uniforms. He was identified as Asher Ben-Zion, a watchmaker believed to have been a member of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, underground Jewish military group. The other body, which was tentatively identified as that of a youth named "Benjamin," was found encased in a sack. Police are investigating the circumstances of his death.

Within a radius of 200 yards from the Russian Compound, a section in the center of the city, hardly a plate glass window was left intact. Shop signs had been blasted away, several stores were completely gutted and the streets were covered with a blanket of shattered glass.

Must Wait War's End— Goldstein

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—A definite solution of the Palestine problem will have to wait until the end of the war, Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Zionist Organization of America, stated at a press conference this week at which he summarized his impression on his recent trip to England.

Disclosing that he had conferred with members of the British Cabinet, including Foreign Minister Eden, on the Jewish demand for the abrogation of the White Paper and for the establishment of Palestine as a Jewish Commonwealth "as soon as Jews become the majority there," Dr. Goldstein said:

"It was my net impression from most of the interviews that while no pronouncement of a new policy is likely to come forth in the near future, the admission of refugees who can get to Palestine should receive consideration. The situation with regard to the White Paper is therefore held in suspense and will not deteriorate against us. As for the definitive solution of the Palestine problem, the consensus of opinion was that it will have to wait until the end of the European war."

The United Hebrew Congregation will feature a special Passover radio broadcast at 9:15 p. m. April 6, over station WIBC. The varied program will include a short message from Rabbi Samuel J. Fox.

(Eastern War Time.)

F. D. R. Backs Opposition To Resolution

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON—Zionist leaders here are disappointed but are refraining from comment presently on President Roosevelt's statement backing the War Department's opposition to the Palestine Resolution. The question of whether America Jews seeking to go to Palestine to take up permanent residence there would be admitted in view of the White Paper ban was discussed here as an aftermath of the confusion and disappointment resulting from the President's statement.

Mass Meeting Asks for Jewish Commonwealth

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—More than 20,000 people crowded into Madison Square Garden this week adopted a resolution demanding the immediate abolition of the British White Paper and calling for "the opening wide of the gates of Palestine to Jewish immigration and settlement, to the end that the Jews may reconstitute Palestine as a free and democratic Jewish Commonwealth."

900,000 Jews Nazi Bag In Hungary

BULLETIN

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

ISTANBUL—The Nazis have sent the Chief Rabbi of Hungary to a concentration camp, while raids on Jewish homes continue. For the last eight days trucks loaded with Jews have been leaving Budapest and other Hungarian cities bound for undisclosed destinations.

Says Jews Trapped

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

ZURICH — Suicides of Jewish refugees from Poland who had found haven in Hungary are reported this week in a brief message which reached here from Budapest despite the strict censorship introduced by the German military authorities following their occupation of the country.

The message also reveals that a number of Jewish leaders are among the prominent Hungarians arrested in Budapest by the Gestapo. It estimates that 150,000 Jewish, Polish, Serbian and other refugees are now threatened with deportation from Hungary, or with concentration camps under Gestapo supervision.

The Jews in Hungary are trapped, Swiss newspapers point out. Emphasizing that Hungary was the only Axis country where Jews had been living in comparative freedom, though under severe anti-Jewish restrictions, the articles express fears that the Jews in Hungary face persecution and annihilation by German occupational authorities.

Ministers Ask Action As 15 Jews Attacked

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

BOSTON — Representatives of 300 Protestant ministers in Greater Boston called on Police Commissioner Joseph Sullivan to make arrests if further disturbances similar to the assault on 15 members of a veteran's band by a group of anti-Semitic hoodlums last week occur.

Meanwhile, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, New England regional office, commended the Veterans of Foreign Wars, whose Malden (Boston suburb) Post sponsors the band, and the Jewish War Veterans of Malden, for "their determination to investigate the entire affair and its anti-American implications."

Last week's incident occurred at the conclusion of the annual Evacuation Day parade here when a group of anti-Semitic youths spied Seaman Albert Cohen, who was marching with a band from the Malden Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. After passing several derogatory remarks about Cohen and several other Jewish members of the band, the hoodlums attacked them, severely beating several of the Malden youths.

The trade agreement negotiated last month between Palestine and Egypt will shortly enter into effect, the Cairo press reports.

Establishment of a Jewish National Shipping Company jointly by the Jewish Agency and the Nachson and Atro shipping lines, has been announced in Tel Aviv.

The Synagogue Council's statement declared that the book is "out of harmony with the teachings, beliefs and practices of Judaism. It displays a spirit of intolerance and irreverence toward the sanctities and the faith of Israel and constitutes a desecration of its holiest doctrines."

Local booksellers reported that no copies of the book, published by The Society of the Bible in the hands of Its Creators, at 1440

Broadway, New York, were available here now. The work is out of print, and has become a collectors' item. Stewart's and the Meridian Book Store reported sales of two copies each, and Ayres' bookstore reported about a dozen copies sold. The Editor's Chair

A reader of The Jewish Exponent, of Philadelphia, wrote in for the names and some background material of Phineas Biron, writer of "Strictly Confidential" and Al Segal. The Exponent refused to release the real name of Mr. Biron, which is Joseph Brainin, who often is a paid publicity agent for many of the people and affairs he mentions in his column, but it did compile a few paragraphs about Mr. Segal, which I herewith reprint:

"His home is in Cincinnati. From the fact that he has been reporter, city editor and columnist on the Cincinnati Post (Scripps-Howard) for 39 years you may guess how old he is.

"He studied at the University of Cincinnati (without graduating) and at the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati. His aspirations toward the rabbinate ended after three years at the Hebrew Union College. He took up journalism.

"As a member of the staff of the Cincinnati Post his work has had to do with the human side of the news and with political crusades. His column, under the pen name 'Cincinnati' is credited with having instituted the movement by which there was established in Cincinnati the city-manager form of government and the proportional representation system of voting.

"In 1918 he went to France as correspondent for The Post in the areas where Cincinnati troops were engaged.

"Jewishly: Since 1925 he has been editorial writer of B'nai B'rith's National Monthly. With Dr. Boris D. Bogen he was co-author of the book 'Born a Jew' (published 1930). For ten years he has written his column 'Plain Talk' for the Jewish press and distributed by Seven Arts Feature Syndicate.

"Forty years after leaving the Hebrew Union College he returned to the institution as a member of its Board of Governors on which he has been serving since Feb., 1942. He was formerly a member of the board of directors of the Isaac M. Wise Temple, Cincinnati.

His vital statistics: He has three sons and three grandchildren. He can run a mile around the gymnasium track in 12 minutes flat."

Editorial Page

Was the Demand for a Commonwealth a Mistake?

THE POST has been sent a very logical "hind-sight" editorial from The New York Post, painting a beautiful picture of why the incorporation of the demand for a Jewish Commonwealth in the Palestine Resolution was a mistake and should be rectified.

On the question of the abrogation of the White Paper, the editorial argues, there is unanimity, in that a resolution on the "idea of Palestine-as-a-haven" would have won total support from all sources.

The New York Post is only one of the papers making the same contention. Many Anglo-Jewish papers, their faint spirits weakened by the ups and downs of political eventualities, are jumping on the bandwagon.

But they are all wrong.

The Palestine-as-a-haven idea and the fight against the White Paper lost not one iota of its effectiveness because of what happened to the Palestine Resolution in the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House. Do not believe for one moment that Great Britain does not know that there was complete unanimity among Jews, and even the United States Government in opposition to the White Paper.

As far as the Jewish groups who opposed the Commonwealth demand, they can be ignored entirely. Their fight is not against Palestine as a Jewish state, it is against the ideology, which they rightly fear may harm the position of the Jew in the United States, that Palestine, either as a Jewish state recognized as such by the world, or Palestine as a land where several million of Jews live as a haven, makes them susceptible to the charge of dual loyalty.

They pitched battle on the Commonwealth clause at this time because that is where their chances for success were best. Had the fight for the past few years not been on this point, the anti- and non-Zionists would have opposed what the Zionists wanted wherever the front lines of Zionism were placed.

The Post editorial draws a fearful picture of Jewry being "left with the terrifying responsibility of having abandoned thousands of co-religionists to die in Hitler Europe. . . . Therefore let all of Jewry say yes to the immediate cry of Palestine as a haven. In doing so, they may also find that the day when Palestine will also be a home and will draw much closer. Right leads to right in the end."

All Jewry is united on the cry of Palestine as a haven, and as far as right leading to right at the end, is The Post suggesting that appeasement leads to right in the end. Let The Post argue that the Jews are not bound by justice to receive Palestine as their own, not that eventually the Messiah will come.

Be Present or Be Uninformed

THOSE interested in Jewish education in the city owe it to themselves, whether they oppose or uphold it, to be present Sunday night when Dr. Leo L. Honor, of Chicago, one of the leading Jewish educators in the United States, makes the report of his survey of Jewish education in the city.

The community has grown past the stage where some men can fight against every appropriation for Jewish education here because they don't know anything about it and don't want it for themselves. There are many unsolved questions in connection with Jewish education in the United States, and on these grounds, opposition can be logically made. But to fight against Jewish education on the grounds of personal ignorance is an affront to the community which will no longer be ignored.

Dr. Honor will be able to answer only the question of whether we are spending our money in Indianapolis wisely. The other question of whether Jewish education is necessary and should be extended was decided on by this community long before the present opposition was born.

It is up to those who want to be informed to make it a point to attend the annual meeting of the Jewish Education Association Sunday night.

Kosher Kitchen at Kirshbaum

PASSAGE of a resolution by Kirshbaum Center to install an entirely Kosher kitchen redounds to the credit of that organization and its leaders, Allan Bloom and Theodore Dann, in their understanding of the fundamental makeup of our community, and to the perseverance of Rabbi Israel Chodos.

The project was first broached by Rabbi Chodos last January, and he has followed it through periods when it seemed as if it were permanently cast aside, to the point where without any demurring whatsoever the motion was carried by the board last Thursday night.

Not only will soldiers' suppers at the Center be strictly kosher now, but what with the closing of the kosher kitchen at the Lincoln Hotel, the entire community will now have access to facilities for kosher meals for any of its functions.

Current Comment

Difficulties of getting books to send to prisoners of war in Germany explained by Rabbi Julian Feibelman in The Jewish Ledger, of New Orleans — We thought we had gauged all the attendant evils of our times, especially those connected with war activity. There is one, however, we little suspected. And that one has to do with sending books or reading material to American Prisoners of War in enemy lands.

This comes to our attention through a book-dealer in a large metropolitan city, who pointed out the difficulty today of selecting books which have no Jewish touch or anything relating to war, known or unknown. For instance, neither publisher nor publishing house may be Jewish, else the book will not pass the enemy censor. This eliminates all books by Viking, Simon and Schuster, Random House, Modern Library, the Pocket Library, and others.

Neither story nor content, nor publisher may be Jewish, about Jews, or contain reference to Jews. Of course, the author must not be Jewish.

In addition, the contents must not be about the war, nor anything appertaining thereto. Detective stories, spy stories, and the like, may have a villain with a significant name, or disguised features, so they are out.

In short, "Bambi," "The Yearling," and animal books are the most popular selections for American Prisoners of War.

Yet, in all of this, the BIBLE is still acceptable. It will be passed by the censor. And we dare not mention by whom the Bible was written, in what language, or about what people, for fear the foreign censors might suspect it is not completely aryan. The Bible goes through, because it is considered to be inferior to MEIN KAMPF! The Bible is probably not yet admissible to Russia, where it is not read, but is somehow being lived.

SARA'S COLUMN

By SARA MESSING STERN

EDNA HORWITZ KAUFMAN of Enid, Okla., found an autograph album that she started in Indianapolis when she was 12 and the names appear in it of Rose Dauby, Celia Feibleman, Sylvan Kahn, Albert Rosenthal—all of whom have passed on—and Nellie Schloss, Gertrude Feibleman, Isadore Feibleman, the late Sam Messing, Ralph Bamberger and others of the "bunch" of those days. Edna also met a woman by the name of Mrs. Ben Feuer, who moved to Enid with her husband recently. She told Edna she was born in Indianapolis and her maiden name was Fry. She is a cousin of Ralph Bamberger, Nellie Schloss Weil, Florence Bamberger Kiser and the late Rose Dauby. Edna's sister, Corinne Horwitz Goldstein, lives in Los Angeles, Cal. She has one son, Alvin, who is on the St. Louis Post Dispatch. Edna's son lives in Salina, Kan. Both young men are married and each has two children. Edna sent me a picture of her home and another of the three generations, Herbert and Edna, their son and his two children. Herbert has retired from business and Edna says they live a very simple life. She is a member of the Enid Council and does Red Cross and war work. Her chief interest is, of course, her grandchildren. Herbert is a brother of Mrs. Isaac Nier and an uncle of Mrs. Elmer Frankel. He was born and educated here in Indianapolis. If I remember rightly, the Kaufman home, a roomy affair, was on North Pennsylvania Street.

TWO YOUNG PEOPLE from Indianapolis had to enlist and go all the way to Italy to meet, renew acquaintance, fall in love and become engaged! Though the engagement has not been formally announced, 2nd Lt. Jessie E. Levin, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Levin, 2822 Central Ave., dietician in a base hospital in Italy and 1st Lt. David Bornstein of the Army Medical Corps, son of Mrs. Nathan Bornstein of New York City, are engaged. On account of army regulations, no date has been set for the wedding. Lt. Levin has been overseas since last August, Lt. Bornstein, for two years. The Bornsteins formerly lived in Indianapolis. My congratulations to the engaged couple, fine young people, both of them!

THE LAST OF THE SEASON'S SYMPHONY CONCERTS at the Murat Saturday night, found lots of folks I knew in attendance. I stayed for the encore at the last so I missed seeing many who had already left. Some of the Levins were there—Mrs. Elias Berkowitz (Bessie Levin), her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Sudranski, Helen Lee Levin, Capt. and Mrs. Harry Kahan (Jen Levin). Others present were Floyd Beitman and daughter, Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney V. Romer, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jaffe, Mrs. Simon L. Kiser, Joseph Bloch, Jacob Mueller, Dr. and Mrs. Louis Segar, Mrs. Jack A. Goodman and daughter, Helen Bamberger, Emma Messing, Gladys Schwartz, Rabbi and Mrs. Maurice Goldblatt, Rabbi and Mrs. Israel Chodos, Janot S. Roskin and Evelyn Borofsky Roskin and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sereinsky, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Adler, Sidney Salinger, Mr. and Mrs. George Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kammins, Mrs. Hattie Meiere, Miss Dora Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fassburg, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Haupt, Mrs. Philip Efrogymson, Miss Sophie Schultz, Terre Haute, Mrs. Hugo Cahn and Walter Saeman.

DID YOU HEAR Bernard Landman, Jr., sixteen-year-old son of the Bernard Landmans, a student at Shortridge, give his original script over WIBC last week on "How to Conserve Coal"? Bernard always seems to win out in any literary competition or debating. He is a "natural" as an orator and has brought honor to Shortridge through this talent.

DR. HARRY A. JACOBS had a birthday on March 21st. It was a past sixty birthday. And I know of no one who, as Jew and as citizen, more justly deserves congratulations on his accomplishments and his birthday anniversary. He has headed Big Eagle Camp since its inception as the Ida Wineman Camp; was the president of the Jewish Federation for three years; he is on the board of the Jewish Education Association and the Jewish Community Credit Union. He has always given generously both time and money and gratuitous services as a physician to Jew and non-Jew and to various public and private philanthropies. He is president of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation and has a deep and abiding faith that has sustained him through all the vicissitudes of his life. He has a keen sense of humor and an infectious smile. His recreation is poker. And he is a winner at that and at many other things! Congratulations!

Smith of Gary, officiated, assisted by Cantor Radin.

The bridal pair was attended by the bride's sister, Miss Lillian Levin, and her fiancé, Mr. Sam Friedman, of Chicago. Out of town guests included Lt. and Mrs. Saul Levin of Camp Ellis, Ill., and Pvt. and Mrs. Louis Levin of Camp Campbell, Ky. Dinner for the members of the immediate family was served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Levin, and later in the evening, a reception for friends was held at the home of the bride's mother in Gary.

The canopy beneath which the couple pledged their vows, was brought from Poland some years back by Mrs. Ben Levin. She had it made for her while visiting there, and on her return home, presented it to the synagogue in Calumet City. The newlyweds will make their home in Paterson.

Oswiecim Swallowed Greek Jews

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
LONDON — The 60,000 Greek Jews who were deported from their homeland to "unknown destinations" in the spring and summer of last year perished in the gas chambers of the dread Oswiecim "death camp" in Poland, it was disclosed by the Polish Ministry of Information here. Most of the Greek Jews had been residents of Salonika or Athens.

The Polish report asserted that more than 500,000 persons have been murdered at Oswiecim since its establishment. Of these, the great majority were Jews, including, in addition to the Greek Jews, 50,000 from Czechoslovakia, 60,000 from Holland, Belgium and France, and tens of thousands of Polish Jews.

The Oswiecim camp has three crematoriums capable of consuming 10,000 bodies daily, the report asserts. The executions in the gas chambers take about fifteen minutes, immediately after which the bodies are taken to a crematorium. Because of a shortage of gas, Jews who were not yet asphyxiated were frequently placed in the crematorium, the report adds.

Speaks On

One Man's Religion

A DETROIT gentleman writes: "Your recent column in appreciation of Jesus suggests that you are quite mixed up. It seems on the day you wrote it you wandered by mistake into the wrong church. How about it?"

No! I am still a member in good standing of B'nai Jeshurun and hope to be able to keep on paying my dues for a long time. I feel sure that when the melancholy time comes my standing in B'nai Jeshurun will still be such as entitle me to burial services.

If the rabbis consider it appropriate to make a few remarks on that occasion I wish they would say something like this:

Segal was a Jew who didn't believe that his being a Jew wrapped him up in exclusive virtue. He respected and revered the ethical prophets of other faiths. He knew that all religions came out of the same stream of human experience.

He did not stand in stiff-necked pride of his own religion. He knew it as one of the several good ways of life that man had hewn out for himself. He followed the way to which he was born but he could feel at home in the religious houses of other men since their ethical teaching was like his own.

It hurt him that out of the non-essential differences between religious men had arrived vile and lasting hates. The ethical likenesses in all religions could have united them from brotherhood. They preferred their unimportant differences and on them they sharpened swords of hate and malice. At times he felt quite discouraged with the human race.

He was resolved that in his own self he would preserve no feeling of hateful difference. He could not regard the fact of his being a Jew as a point of separation between him and other men who were of other communions. He could go along with them if they were going in his direction toward a world more just and lovely.

If, nevertheless, he had to walk alone he could be content. He had been faithful to his own way of thinking.

Segal's idea of being a Jew was not geographical nor was it essentially synagogal. It had nothing to do with a distant spot on the earth's surface; it was not bounded by the lines of a national state.

He was not a regular attendant at the synagogue, though he faithfully paid his dues. He believed in supporting a union of men dedicated to the ideals of Judaism. Had he been a rich man he, with a good conscience, might have given his financial support also to other religious groups that were faithful to the idea of a righteous order in the world.

He thought that among the Jews, in the recent years, too much emphasis had been placed on the politics of being a Jew, on irreligious aspirations, on nationalistic programs.

To his mind, being a Jew still was primarily related to living a good life, to the fulfillment of what the prophet said about dealing righteously and walking humbly, to the Ethics of the Fathers.

He thought the teaching of our rabbis had gone far from these fundamentals of being Jewish. Their sermons went to far-off shores where the Mediterranean washes an ancient land, to 10 Downing street to preach to a Prime Minister.

Not that Segal wishes to have it believed that he himself ideally fulfilled the ethical function of being Jewish. He fell far short but it should be said for him that he did try to attain what he believed to be a Jewish life in its ethical meaning. He regarded that meaning the prime element of the Jewish identity.

He did not believe, though, that the righteousness of Judaism could be lived in a vacuum. A good Jew could not wrap the robes of his virtue about him and in his righteousness hold himself separate from the world. He must go into the world and give to the guidance of mankind the social light that is in the Jewish teaching. Segal knew that his own salvation as a Jew was not separate from that of the rest of mankind oppressed by special privilege and persecuted by injustice and devastated by war. A Jew could not withdraw in solitude to cry out his own pain; his pain was only a piece of the agony of mankind.

Segal liked to read Leviticus 19 where he found good social teaching: "The stranger that dwelleth with you shall be as one born among you, and thou shalt love him as thyself." . . . "You shall not do unrighteousness in judgment." . . . "When you reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field; and thou shalt not gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger." . . . "Thou shalt not defraud thy neighbor, neither rob him." . . . "The wages of him that is hired shall not abide with thee until the morning." . . . "Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thy heart; thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

This was Segal's way of looking at religion and, particularly, at being Jewish. There were those who asked him, "In what way is your idea of being Jewish different from being Christian? In the way you are Jewish you could just as well be a Christian. Where, in your Jewish life are all the Jewish religious practices that make us different?"

Well, Segal replied, again you bring up unessential differences and take your eyes from divine likenesses. Are not all peoples one in belief in the ethical decencies that are common to all their religions? I am a Jew precisely because I know that in its essentials the way of Jewish life parallels the way of Christian life and as a Jew, I go with Christians toward the common goal of brotherhood. What is religion for if it is not a way to the brotherhood?

Segal knew Jesus as another Jew who, even after the 2000 years, might yet be listened to as He summoned men to the brotherhood.

I hope the rabbis of B'nai Jeshurun will read this at my funeral, but then it may be asking too much of them to read it, since they are nationalists and they may regard this piece as a non-nationalist utterance. Anyway, this speech may take about ten minutes to read and no funeral sermon should last more than five minutes. Guests at a funeral are in such a hurry to get back to their work nowadays.

160 Reach Palestine;

Trek Started Before War

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

HAIFA—A group of 160 Rumanian Jews arrived recently after a trip which started before Rumania entered the war.

The Jewish refugees were aboard a vessel which was wrecked in the Black Sea and reached the Turkish coast in life-boats. They were interned by the Turkish authorities while efforts were made to secure their admittance to Palestine. When the Palestine Government refused them admittance, they were transferred to Cyprus and held in a camp there for more than two-and-a-half years. The Jewish Agency finally secured immigration visas for them, enabling them to land here as legal immigrants.

TOWN CRIER

By G. M. COHEN

The article I was asked to write on the Anglo-Jewish press for the National Jewish Monthly, was accepted, but Editor Grusd deleted some of the important paragraphs, so I had to ask that it be not printed. And that really hurt. Here was my first chance to write for a national Jewish publication, and that on request from the editor. I don't know what I'll do with the article yet, but I may print it in our Passover issue.

The Jewish Ledger, of Hartford, Conn., of which Rabbi Abraham Feldman is editor, reproduced on page one of a recent issue, a letter from one George Wall, a contractor and builder, received by Mayor William H. Mortensen, which really stirred the community, judged by succeeding issues of the paper. Here is the letter:

Dear Sir:—It looks to me as you are a tool for the Jews. I do not know how much you have seen of Europe before this war but may I tell you that the Jews had that coming to them and will have it coming to them here, I hope while I live! I have nothing against a Jew because of his religion but because they all must be members of the World Jewry, that is very bad. Hitler did a fine job on them over there and I hope they will never come back in power in Europe.

I hate that power mad cripple in Washington because he has sold us here in America to the Jews.

Praise the Lord and pass the Jews to Hitler and the World will stay Free!

Don't tie the Americans down let's be free. — Yours truly, GEORGE WALL.

The paper charged that Wall has been "conducting a scurrilous anti-Semitic and un-American campaign." In a later issue, The Jewish Ledger says that Wall suffered remorse and recanted to some extent. The Ledger demanded editorially that the district attorney institute action against Mr. Wall. The Hartford Times excoriated Wall in an editorial headed, "Despicable Bigotry," and Samuel Neusner, publisher of the Ledger, the following week, wrote that: "Publication of the ... letter brought forth one of the greatest and most heartening community demonstrations that Hartford ever has seen."

There is some discussion going on at the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation over late Friday night or Sunday morning services, with Rabbi Morris Lazaron seeming to be favoring the Sunday morning time. In a letter in the bulletin of the Congregation, Edwin S. Rau writes: "... for about 40 years, the Sunday morning service has been and still is the key-stone of American Reform Judaism. ... As long as they are privileged to work as free men in a democratic America, 95 per cent of the men of the Congregation will work on Saturday—at least part time—and be happy for that privilege. Without a regular Sunday morning service, then, they cannot be anything but two-day-a-year Jews." Samuel M. Woronoff, on the other hand, contends: "From a practical standpoint, I think that the Friday night service will bring a larger attendance. Too many of us look forward to late hours in bed on Sunday morning to desire to change our habits to early rising in order to attend Temple. Most of us who do not sleep late on Sunday are accustomed to arising early during the summer months to play golf, and I think you will find it difficult to convince a good many of us that Sunday morning in Temple will do us more good than the physical exercise and fresh air that we obtain on the golf course. As a matter of fact, the Christian churches have trouble combating these influences, particularly the latter, and some of them have gone to unusual hours for their services in order to draw the men."

Here's an excerpt from a letter of Chaplain Eugene Sack, now in New Guinea, to Rabbi Louis Wolsey, which I think you would be interested in: "It seems to me that at home we are so insulated from the stark realities of life and death by the little day to day concerns with the amenities, and the forms, and the luxuries and the frills of living, that we consider the petty things such as the ludicious Jewish politics, as the important problems of our communal life, while the really fundamental problems, we leave untouched. While at Wheeler, I found a marked interest among the Jewish men in Zionism, anti-Zionism, anti-Semitism. Here they all seem utterly unimportant. Here the good life for the individual, and a fair tomorrow for all men, are of deep concern."

Rabbi Herman Rosenbloom has this to say in his Tremont Temple Bulletin: "The Synagogues of New York are slowly being deserted. When the war was in its early stages, there was an apparent eagerness to enter the House of God. Now that the war continues, the Jewish people no longer seek the comfort and inspiration of prayer."

Bernie Cohen, who runs the drug store at 900 N. Illinois, called to ask about the Toras Emes in Jerusalem. The caretaker of a building near him had received some stamps and a request for a contribution, and not being Jewish, had come into the store to ask Bernie about it. He told Bernie he would be glad to send in a contribution, if he were sure the cause was worthy. I called Joe Hyman, who promised to check and let Bernie know. The address and U. S. name on the appeal was YTE Emergency Fund, 243 East Broadway, New York City. This is really a problem. Some of these appeals are really worthy, while others are strictly rackets and feed on the gullible Jews who wouldn't turn down any kind of appeal.

THE JUNIOR POST

For Boys and Girls
By RUTH PALLER

Dear boys and girls:

I want to tell you a true Passover story that reads like a fairy tale and the fairy godmother is Henrietta Szold, a wonderful American Jewish lady who founded Youth Aliyah. Do you know what Youth Aliyah is? Well, it's an organization to save boys and girls from the terror of Nazi-lands, and take them to a children's colony in Palestine, where they go to school and learn how to live again as free, happy children should live.

Every Jewish mother and father in Germany, Poland, Austria—everywhere the Nazis are persecuting the Jews—hope that if they cannot escape, at least their children will have a chance through Youth Aliyah.

When our story opens, a group of boys and girls are in a crowded Vienna railroad station saying goodbye to their parents. They are the fortunate children whom Youth Aliyah had received government permission to take out of Austria and they were on their way to Palestine.

A little girl with long braids and a boy with a knapsack on his shoulder, clung tightly to their mother, and the girl sobbed: "But, mama, if you can't go too, I want to stay here."

So Tina and Karl and 30 other children started the trek to Palestine—a journey that was to take many weary months. The trip from Vienna to Palestine is ordinarily very short—a train ride to a port on the Mediterranean Ocean and a boat trip across to Haifa. But Europe was at war, then too, and the travelers were blocked at every town.

They went to Russia and had to travel up into Siberia. After months of travelling by train, by bus and on foot they came quite close to Palestine but again their path was closed and they journeyed hundreds of miles around Palestine before they could reach it. The little band was increased by refugee children and grown-ups, fleeing the Nazi terror.

Such a weary and bedraggled little band they were when at last they reached Teheran in Iraq, which you know as old Persia. A little further and they would have reached their destination. But it was not to be even yet.

The travellers were interned at a camp in Teheran waiting for official permission to enter the Holy Land. That was in March, just two years ago.

And then Henrietta Szold went to work. She lives in Palestine, you see.

All through their wanderings, she had been watching over her Youth Aliyah children—when one door was closed, she got another one opened for them—and now they were almost home.

She went to the British High Commissioner for permission to cut the red tape and bring her children into Palestine in time to celebrate Passover in their own land.

It wasn't easy. There were war-time complications. But Miss Szold succeeded. The permission came on the day before Passover.

Less than a day's trip by bus would bring Karl and Tina and all their friends to their colony—but no busses were available. It was holiday time and every bus was engaged.

Henrietta Szold wouldn't give up now. She coaxed and persuaded and finally on the morning of the First Seder Day, a bus stood at the gates of the camp at Teheran.

The leader who had come with the children all the way from Vienna, gathered her charges and said in ringing tones:

"Pack your bags for the last time, children. Some of us are to go—others must stay here. We who are to go must pledge that we will work to make a place for those who will come later."

And Karl and Tina pledged with shining eyes that they would make a place of refuge for their mother

PUZZLE BOX

Here is an acrostic. Write down the answers to these six questions, with the first letters underneath each other.

1. A month in spring.
2. The name God gave to Jacob.
3. Jacob's wife.
4. A patriarch in the bible.
5. The first high priest.
6. The great man of Passover.

Now read down the first letters and if you have it right you will find the name of a person very important in the Passover story. Let's see how well you know the story of the holiday.

Write me a letter with your answer in it and address it to the Junior Post, Box 1633, Indianapolis, Ind. I hope we have lots of correct answers.

The correct replies to our first scrambled word puzzle are Joshua, Ruth, Isaac, Moses, Esther.

The right answers were sent in by Rica Simmons, 3906 Pennsylvania, Indianapolis; Miriam Jean Kodicek, 28 Locust St., Hammond; Ilene Saul, 1816 Vermont, Fort Wayne, and Gene Abrams, 1206 Blaine Ave., South Bend.

and all the mothers who were left behind.

Yes, they had their Seder. And as Karl listened to the Passover story, suddenly he felt Tina's hand slip into his, and she whispered: "Why Karl, this is our story," and he nodded.

"Yes, the Passover story is our story."

Government financing of the work of the War Refugee Board was urged in a series of proposals for the rescue of Jews and others threatened with extermination in Nazi-dominated Europe, in a memorandum submitted to the Board by the American Jewish Conference, it was announced this week.

We received some very nice letters from boys and girls who want to join the Junior Post Club. To become a member just write a letter about yourself and tell us that you'd like to join too.

In our last issue there was an interesting letter from Toby Saperstine, but we printed her name as Sylvester. Sorry, Toby. Write again.

Dear Junior Post:

I am eight years old. I attend Beth El Sunday school and Hebrew classes.

I would like to see a Bible story out of the same chapter of the Sidra which is read in Shul every Sabbath morning, so that the girls and boys will be up to date with the Bible.

Wishing the Junior Post every success, I remain, yours truly,

Dear Junior Post:

I am a boy in the 7th grade in school. I am 12 years old, and I go to Hebrew School every day and Sunday school every Sunday.

Dear Junior Post:

I am 11 years old, and in 5A. I take piano lessons. I enjoy them very much, but sometimes I don't like to practice. I think it would be very nice to have a Junior Post with puzzles and stories. I will try and work the puzzles every time. I am going to Sunday school now and show the Junior Post to my teacher. I am looking forward to seeing it next week.

To all those who rely upon the Telephone

A REPORT

★ At the Telephone Company, we firmly believe that it's up to us to do all we can to provide the kind of telephone service the public wants—when and where it is wanted. This review from our Annual Report for 1943 is to let you know how we are getting along with that job.

Keeping Pace with War

In this great war of manpower and materials, distances are vast and time is always pressing. Whenever a war job must be done, there is need for the telephone. To keep up production in plants and on farms; to train and equip troops; to carry on essential civilian activities and the many wartime functions of Government—all add up to an urgent need for more telephone service than ever before.

Lines and equipment to serve more customers have become increasingly scarce. The manufacture of new telephone facilities of all kinds for civilian use was brought to a halt early in the war. The basic materials that go into telephone plant—and the factories for making it—are being used for war production.

We have been doing everything we can to make the most of what we have. Short lengths of usable wire are painstakingly salvaged; older equipment is re-conditioned and made to do.

We're Doing the War Jobs First

We have met all requirements for telephone service essential to the war—and met them on time. This, we will continue to do.

We are also installing service for others as fast as facilities are released by customers who discontinue service, but we now have on file about 25,000 applications throughout the state for service that cannot be provided immediately. The waiting interval varies considerably in different localities—a long wait being necessary wherever the shortage of cable plant and central office equipment is particularly acute.

We Appreciate the Public's Co-operation

Telephone installations have been subject to various necessary governmental restrictions for some time; and delays on Long Distance calls are unavoidable when the lines are congested. The patience and understanding of telephone users; their splendid spirit of co-operation, despite considerable inconvenience in some cases, have been of great assistance to us. We sincerely appreciate it. We are making our plans now to meet all requirements for service just as soon as we have the materials and facilities to do it.

What About Telephone Company Earnings?

With our local and Long Distance facilities so fully utilized all through the year, our revenues were up 15%. However, the costs of doing business increased in slightly greater proportion and net earnings were again below the average of the three years preceding the war.

The Telephone Company's "cost-of-living," 80% of which now goes for payrolls and taxes, has risen very rapidly in the last five years.

Telephone service must be provided 24 hours a day every day, and it now takes about 5,000 men and women to do the job in this Company. Telephone work requires many special skills, and our people must be capable and competent. In five years, our force has been increased by 50% and payrolls are up 70%.

Heavy taxes we must all pay—and pay cheerfully—if this war is to be won. Ours are up 150% in five years. Our 5-million-dollar tax bill for 1943 was equivalent to $1.25 per month for each telephone in service. (This does not include an additional 2½ million dollars in direct federal taxes paid by our customers for the use of telephone service.)

There is now more than 61 million dollars invested in our telephone plant; other assets needed to carry on a going business bring the total to nearly 63 million dollars. Our earnings for 1943 amounted to 4.66% on that investment.

Service Improvements Postponed by War

The telephone industry is one of the most dynamic in American life. Its birth, its rapid expansion and its great technical progress have all taken place within the span of one lifetime. War has interrupted this continuous development, but we are planning to resume after the war our long range program of improvement in facilities and in service.

There was no new telephone construction last year, except for a few, small additions essential to war, and there is no way to predict now when materials for our use will be available again.

Increased Rates May be Needed

At the present time, however, there is a very considerable need for additional facilities. Practically all of our facilities are now in use, and if the demand for telephone service does continue well above pre-war levels, it is certain that very extensive additions will be needed just to restore our normal margins of spare facilities. We can't provide a customer with the kind of service he wants, when and where he wants it, unless we have spare facilities ready for service in every neighborhood.

To restore our normal reserve of spare plant will require a large additional investment for facilities that do not produce a corresponding increase in revenue. The costs of furnishing service, such as payrolls and taxes, are likely to continue to be high after the war. If so, the present telephone rates may not produce sufficient earnings to induce people to invest with us the additional funds we will need.

For the Future

With your continued understanding, we shall again move forward after the war striving always to furnish more and better telephone service at the lowest cost to the user that is consistent with the fair treatment of our employees and the financial safety of this business.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Economist Robert Nathan—who, to make confusion worse confounded, has just emulated poet Robert Nathan by publishing a book (on the theme "Mobilizing for Abundance," however)—will, we hear, soon go to Palestine to make a survey of its economic possibilities. . . . Art lovers, particularly those with Zionist leanings, are beating a path through Central Park these days to Maxa Nordau's parkside studio, where she is holding a private showing of her paintings and drawings of Palestine, France and America. . . . Irving Berlin spent a couple of very busy days on his return here from England. . . . He sat at the phone for hours on end, delivering personal messages from American soldiers to their families here.

WEEKLY GIGGLE

Harry Hershfield likes to tell the story of the lunatic asylum in Germany whose director, expecting a visit from the Fuehrer, drilled all the inmates so that their "heiling" and saluting would testify to the complete Nazification of that institution. . . . So Hitler came, and in every padded cell and every less isolated ward each and every man and woman greeted him in true Nazi fashion. . . . All, that is, but one man. . . . Hitler eyed him with indignation. . . . "Why don't you salute me?" he roared. . . . "Who, me?" exclaimed the man. . . . "I'm the keeper—I'm not crazy."

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

By BORIS SMOLAR
J. T. A. News Editor

THE RESCUE FRONT

The sudden German occupation of Hungary and the virtual occupation of Rumania came as a blow to the rescue plans on which the War Refugee Board was working. . . . But many Jews can still be saved from these countries through Turkey, and the War Refugee Board, working in cooperation with the Joint Distribution Committee, is wide awake. . . . Little can be told of the great efforts which the J. D. C. is now making to finance the rescue of Jews from Europe. . . . But it is sufficient to say that more than $5,000,000 have been allocated by the J. D. C. for this work during the first three months of this year.

Avoid Publicity

The shunning of publicity by the J. D. C. at present is due to the fear that anything published in the press may prejudice the chances of those who can still be rescued from Nazi lands. . . . It must be remembered that premature publicity led to Nazi pressure upon the Vichy Government not to permit the departure from France of 5,000 Jewish children who the United States Government was willing to admit. . . . Though this publicity did not emanate from the J. D. C. office, the leaders of the J. D. C. learned a lesson from it and prefer to do their work in quiet for the time being.

U. N. R. R. A. Can't Pay Help

Did you know that the U. N. R. R. A. has asked private relief groups to supply 150 members for the U. N. R. R. A. staff and to pay their salaries? . . . The J. D. C. will send ten social and medical workers to work in the ranks of the U. N. R. R. A. in Europe. . . . The J. D. C. is now forming an European Advisory Council composed of Jewish leaders from Poland, Germany, France and other countries where J. D. C. relief work will be started immediately after their liberation.

ZIONIST SIDELIGHTS

Dr. Nahum Goldmann and Rabbi Israel Goldstein, who have returned from London, are very optimistic as to Zionist political possibilities in England. . . . The fact that the Palestine resolution was shelved, for the time being, by the Congressional committees did make an impression in London, but only for a few days. . . . Further developments have made it clear that even military authorities in Washington may eventually change their position with regard to the Jewish claims on Palestine.

J. V. A. GOES AHEAD

American engineers and experts, in the meantime, are busily engaged in making surveys and laying out plans for Lowdermilk's project to create a Jordan Valley Authority similar to the T. V. A. in the United States. . . . A full statement may soon be issued by Zionist leaders in America engaged on this project, in which Dr. Weizmann is especially interested. . . . Should the project materialize, it will be possible not only to settle 4,000,000 more Jews on reclaimed and irrigated land, but a huge international loan for Jewish development of Palestine would also be secured.

AIDING WAR EFFORT

At present Jewish industrialists in Palestine are busy developing ethyl alcohol, butyl alcohol, acetone and acetic acid by fermenting citrus fruit peelings or pulp after extracting pectin or essential oils. . . . All these products are important for the war effort, and it is due to research done by Jewish scientists in Palestine that a method has been discovered by which 63 per cent of solvents can be obtained from citrus fruit peelings. . . . It is no longer a secret that Dr. Weizmann is the "father" of this method.

OUR DAILY BREAD

If you want to learn interesting facts about the Jewish contribution to the development of bread, read the extremely interesting book "Six Thousand Years of Bread" by H. E. Jacob, just published by Doubleday, Doran and Co. . . . The author, giving the history of bread, establishes that the people of Israel learned to know of bread through their intercourse with the Egyptians. . . . Before coming to Egypt they had no ovens because they lived in tents.

ley was used only by the poor Jews. . . . When the Jews settled in Palestine, they established in Jerusalem a "bakers' street" where all masters of the trade were located in one quarter. . . . The loaves at that time resembled flat stones. . . . They were so small that at least three loaves were necessary for one man's meal. . . . Because the bread was flat, the Jews at that time broke it rather than cut it.

Matzoth years before the Exodus from Egypt and claims that the custom of eating matzoth was older than Moses. . . . The remarkable reverence towards bread which the Jew has is characterized by the fact that he blesses it each day before breaking it, the author points out. . . . The author has much praise for the Jewish laws which eliminated speculation in land by the legal provision that all debts on land would be wiped out every fiftieth year when all debtors and tenants were freed of their obligations. . . . It was a law that no other people possessed and the lack of which gives the agrarian world plenty of trouble today, he emphasizes. . . . It took Jacob twenty years of research to do this unique book.

CHURCHILL'S MISTAKE

You may not know of Isaiah Berlin, the efficient and well-informed Jewish member of the British Embassy staff in Washington. . . . But Prime Minister Churchill knows of him from reading his reports from the United States. . . . I had no chance to ask Isaiah Berlin whether he ever met Irving Berlin, since the former rushed off to London on a bomber last week. . . . But this is the story now reaching New York from England. . . . When Irving Berlin visited London recently, he asked British officials whether he could not be received by Prime Minister Churchill. . . . One of the officials inquired of the Prime Minister whether he would not like to see "Mr. Berlin who just arrived from the United States." . . . Churchill's reply was, "Of course, I want to see him. I want to hear all about the latest developments in America."

* * *

LUNCH WITH CHURCHILLS

A few days later Irving Berlin was sitting in Churchill's home, having lunch with the Prime Minister and his wife. . . . Churchill kept on asking his guest one question after another about the political scene in America, but somehow the answers were not exactly those of a trained British diplomat. . . . The more questions Churchill asked, the more embarrassing the situation became. . . . Finally Mrs. Churchill posed a question on the non-political subject of music in America. Here Berlin found himself and the talk suddenly assumed a lively character. . . . "What is the matter with this fellow?" Churchill asked his wife later, "He seems to know all about music, but he knows nothing about politics. And to think that this man is one of the political observers on the staff of our Embassy in Washington!" . . . "But he's not!!" Mrs. Churchill replied. "He's Irving Berlin, the musician!!"
